

Congenital Rectovaginal Defect and Atresia Ani in A four week old Local Puppy: A Case Report

AJADI R.A., ALADESAWE T.A, ADEWOYE C.O. and OYEMAKINDE B.O.

Department of Veterinary Surgery & Reproduction, University of Ibadan, Ibadan. Mokola Veterinary Clinic, Ibadan, Oyo State

Abstract

Rectovaginal defect and atresia ani were diagnosed in a four-week-old female local puppy.

Complications included urinary and feecal incontinence, constipation and retarded growth. On necropsy at ten weeks of age, there was a well developed, patent rectum which terminated directly on the vagina. A rectovagina fistula was absent. The tail was also absent.

Keyword:

Rectovaginal defect, atresia ani puppy.